Research Experience and Notable Projects

Graduate-level Research and Projects

eXplainable Artificial Intelligence (XAI) Gainesville, Florida

Sep. 2017 - Present

- Created web-based interactive systems for an explainable video activity recognition system, and utilized the system to conduct controlled experiments and A/B testing to study user's perception of model's accuracy and mental model.
- Designed and conducted user studies to determine the effects of explanations in an image classifier on user trust.
- Studying the correlation between explanations, user cognitive biases, user trust, and deception in explainable AI/ML systems.
- Technologies: HTML/CSS, JavaScript, Bootstrap, D3.js, React.js, Material-UI, and MySQL

Trust and Expertise in Automation Gainesville, Florida

Jan. 2019 - Present

- Studying trust in AI/ML systems, mainly focusing on explainable and interpretable models and how they can affect trust.
- Studying Domain expertise and knowledge and how they affect user behaviour, such as trust, user mental models, and cognitive biases.
- Designed and conducted user studies to determine the effects of domain expertise in an image classifier scenario on user trust.

Analytical Provenance Visualization & Segmentation Gainesville, Florida

May 2019 - Present

- Conducted and designed a controlled behavioral user study to understand how humans summarize analytical provenance data.
- Mentored an undergraduate research intern in NSF REU program for prototyping a visual interface for this project.

SplitStreams for Visualizing Hierarchies over Time Gainesville, Florida

Feb. 2019 - Feb. 2020

- Conducted user studies through Amazon Mechanical Turk to evaluate the method usefulness and user performance in comparison to current techniques.

FashioNXT Social Network College Station, Texas
